The Pottery Expo at Federation Square is a celebration of Victoria's finest contemporary ceramic art.

40 Victorian ceramic artists will showcase a wide variety of their work, from delicate porcelain to robust sculptures in the Atrium on Sunday 11 November 2007
from 10 am until 5.30pm

The Pottery Expo is based on the French Potters' Markets, which celebrate the finest studio ceramics in the most stunning of settings. The Atrium at Federation Square will transform into an exhibition space where ceramic artists from around Victoria will display, sell and discuss their work.

This will be the third annual Pottery Expo at Federation Square and the 14th in Victoria.

The artists look forward to meeting and talking to all those interested in ceramics, from students and aspiring makers, home decorators, art lovers and collectors.

It is a chance to meet the maker, purchase a unique piece of Australian ceramic art, have a coffee and watch the demonstrations of how pottery is made.

Ceramics courses at TAFE will be there to explain ceramics education possibilities.

Ceramics suppliers will have clay, glaze, tools and books available.

Live music by soul singer Ella Thompson with Nat Barch on keys.

Bring the family.
